This is a hand-drawn architectural floor plan of a large rectangular room, possibly a hall or auditorium. The plan is divided into several sections by a central horizontal corridor or aisle. The room features a grid of structural elements, likely columns or beams, represented by lines with 'X' marks at the intersections. Various dimensions are noted throughout the plan, including 8.15, 5.55, 1.04, 1.52, and 3.95. The word "Clave" is written in several locations, possibly indicating specific structural points or doors. The plan is annotated with numerous circled numbers (e.g., 14, 11, 13, 7, 12) and some text like "Clave" and "Clave". A large orange rectangular area is visible on the right side of the plan, possibly representing a stage or a specific functional area. The overall layout suggests a symmetrical design with a central axis.
